DECONSTRUCTING THE BEATLES

This January, I'll be taking my Deconstructing The Beatles presentations to the home of the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, Cleveland, as well as to Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania. Plus, a Holiday message from the 1964 Beatles.

In 2012, I'll be embarking on a Deconstructing The Beatles tour across the USA. This January, I'll be at the Cleveland Museum Of Art in Cleveland, OH for two nights deconstructing Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band and the "White Album". I'll also be visiting the Bryn Mawr Film Institute in Bryn Mawr, PA for "A Trip Through Strawberry Fields". Tickets to all three events are on sale and expected to go quickly.

For a limited time, Apple is offering a free interactive ebook of "Yellow Submarine" for the iPhone, iPad, and iPod Touch with tons of extra features. Nearly every page has something that you can move, touch, or play. There are even a few surprises along the way. Fun for kids AND adults. And did I mention that it's free?!?

A HOLIDAY MESSAGE FROM JOHN, PAUL, GEORGE, & RINGO

Each year, from 1963 to 1969, members of the Beatles' fan club would receive a special Christmas present -- a "flexi-disc" containing a special message from the Beatles. Filled with silly songs, skits, and good wishes from the Fab Four, these Christmas records have never been officially released on CD (and you won't find them on iTunes).

A Big Thank You

As 2011 comes to a close, I want to thank everyone who has attended my presentations, participated in a lively post-show Q&A, emailed me with questions or comments, and helped spread the word about Deconstructing The Beatles. It's been a thrill giving my talks this year, and I look forward to taking my shows across the country in 2012.
